

Roberto Smeraldi

Since 1988 Roberto Smeraldi has been the Director of Amigos da Terra - Brazilian Amazonia, a leading Brazilian NGO. A journalist and author, He has published a number of essays and books on environment, development, sustainable business, the Amazon, forestry, travel and culinary arts.

Roberto Smeraldi is a member of the National Commission on Social Determinants of Health and of the Brazilian Forum on Climate Change, both appointed by the President of the Republic, and served as Chairman of the International NGO Steering Committee for the UN Conference on Environment and Development.

He has acted as senior advisor to various UN agencies, to the World Bank and to the President of the Republic of Brazil, and currently serves on various boards and steering committees in Brazil and abroad, including Yale's University "The Forest Dialogue" (since 2005).

